

Cherie K Berry
North Carolina Commissioner of Labor

September 5, 2006

Dear Fellow North Carolina Republican:

The last thing North Carolina needs is scandal or corruption, but the Democrat abuse of power and breach of trust reminds us all how important it is for our Party to offer better candidates who will serve this State with integrity.

Because of the fundamental importance of putting the best people on the ballot and in public office, I am proud to announce my unqualified and enthusiastic support for Bob Crumley for North Carolina Attorney General in 2008. Bob is the hardest working candidate I have ever seen, and I know he can win a statewide race. His commitment to winning is what we need to have in all our candidates if we are going to break the Democrat's stranglehold on state government.

There are three outstanding reasons that have led me to support Bob's candidacy:

- Bob has what it takes: the personal integrity, together with well-honed professional and business experience to perform the extraordinarily important tasks of running the State's largest law firm. The North Carolina Department of Justice simply could not be in better hands.
- The importance of the job: the Attorney General, the State's chief legal officer, must be willing to lead boldly to bring safety and civility to our communities and neighborhoods. Bob Crumley will be that kind of Attorney General, never sitting on the sidelines or waiting on poll results before protecting the rights and interests of the citizens.
- The Council of State: The Attorney General sits on the Council of State, together with other officials elected statewide. With only three Republican members presently serving, we need another strong, conservative voice like Bob Crumley on the Council of State in shaping public policy making the best choices for North Carolina's future.

This will be a long and difficult campaign. Bob has made an unprecedented commitment of time, money and energy to this effort, and I hope you will join me in supporting him. Bob will help make our 2008 statewide GOP one of the strongest ever, and I am proud to be on that ticket with him as I seek my own re-election.

Please take a look at Bob's campaign website at www.bobcrumley.com to learn more about him, his positive track record and his vision of better service to North Carolina. Then, I hope you will make a commitment to this exciting, winning campaign!

Sincerely,

Cherie Berry
NC Commissioner of Labor

P.S. Some people may think 2008 is far down the road. For those of us involved in politics year-round, we know that planning and preparation lead us to victory. The '08 elections will be here in just a few short months. Let's all be ready to win with Bob Crumley.
